COLORADO SYMPHONY ANNOUNCES THE MUSIC OF SELENA

March 31 and April 1 performances will be conducted by Christopher Dragon and feature vocalist Isabel Sánchez

Oct. 5, 2022 – Denver, CO – In homage to the “Queen of Tejano Music,” the Colorado Symphony under the direction of resident conductor Christopher Dragon brings the iconic music of Selena Quintanilla to life backed by a full, world-class symphony orchestra and featuring sensational soloist Isabel Sánchez at Boettcher Concert Hall on March 31 and April 1, 2023.

An acclaimed recording artist, vocalist, and experienced performer, Sánchez returns to the Boettcher Concert Hall stage in The Music of Selena. Formerly a contestant on Telemundo’s La Voz Kids, she currently records for Q-Zone Records, the label founded and owned by Abraham Quintanilla, Selena’s father. She was recently honored to receive the Texas House Member’s Resolution for her contribution to the arts/community service and leadership in the Latino Community on the house floor at the State Capitol in Austin. At her young age Isabel Marie became the youngest and first Tejano artist to ever have three songs in rotation at the same time listed in the top 20 for the nationally syndicated bilingual show- Tejano Gold Countdown.

Sánchez and the Colorado Symphony will celebrate the life and enduring legacy of Selena while performing iconic hits like “Dreaming of You,” “Como la Flor,” “Bidi Bidi Bom Bom,” “No Me Queda Más” and “I Could Fall in Love” in this unforgettable and emotional tribute to “The Queen of Tejano Music.”

Single tickets for this performance are on sale now. For concert descriptions and ticket information, please visit coloradosymphony.org or call the box office at 303.623.7876.
